Census Forms Arrive in Mail

1990 Census workers in Crawford County will begin picking up census forms Sunday, April 1. Census workers will make at least seven attempts between April 1 and April 15 to pick up the form at a residence.

Jerry Morford, Grayling City Manager, said anyone who has not had their census forms picked up by April 20 can call him at the city hall (348-2131) and he will see the proper census workers are notified.

County residents should receive their census forms in the mail between March 23 and 29.

City, township, and county officials are urging everyone to be counted to help Crawford County residents receive a fair share of federal and state funding.

Burglary Ring Suspect Arraigned

A Grayling man was arraigned in District Court Tuesday, March 20, on six charges of breaking and entering a coin-operated device and one charge of breaking and entering a building.

Thomas James Lozon, 21, was bound over to circuit court on these charges on Tuesday, March 27. He was arrested in the early hours of March 19 in Spoke O' Nails by Grayling City Patrolman Dennis Long.

Long said Lozon is a suspect in a three month investigation of a burglary ring which involved four counties. Police believe the breaking and enterings involved nine businesses and public buildings in Crawford and Roscommon counties. The thefts started the beginning of January at the Moose Lodge in Beaver Creek Township. At the end of January, the Grayling High School and the Fun 'n Games business were broken into. During the first of March, the Eagles Club on M-72 East was broken into. At the end of March, Weatherly's, the Moose Lodge (again), and Spike's tavern in Crawford County and the Silver Dollar Bar and Cross Country Ski Headquarters in Roscommon County were broken into.

More than $3,500 in cash from vending machines and items were stolen and about $7,000 in damages were reported. Long said he believes the loot was fenced in Oscoda and Wexford counties. About $100 in cash has been recovered.

The Crawford County Prosecutor's Office has issued 20 warrants for four different individuals from Grayling. Those names are being withheld pending issuance of the warrants. Long said he expects other warrants to be issued from Roscommon County for these same individuals.

Police Chief Peter Stephan credited the successful completion of this investigation to the cooperative effort by the Grayling City Police and sheriff departments from Crawford, Roscommon, and Oscoda counties.

State Looks At Buying Rayburn's

The property known as Rayburn's has once again been nominated for purchase by the Michigan Natural Resources Trust Fund (MNRTF).

Norma Naour, of Cornell Real Estate, nominated Rayburn's for consideration by the MNRTF (formally known as the Kammer Trust Fund) last December. The asking price is $1.2 million. Rayburn's had been nominated to the trust fund prior to being sold in 1988 to Eugene and Susan Kraus of Oak Park, but no action was taken.

Several Department of Natural Resources (DNR) divisions have expressed interest in the Rayburn property, but the lack of funding sources is a problem.

"No one in the department wants to see the Rayburn property developed," said David Yankce, Supervisor of the DNR's Real Estate Acquisition Division.

Tom M. Woiwode, director of The Michigan Nature Conservancy, said his organization is still assembling information of the Rayburn property to determine what course of action they may take.

"A number of entities, including the DNR, have been asking for our participation in acquiring the Rayburn property," said Woiwode.

According to Woiwode, The Michigan Nature Conservancy has worked on occasion as a holding company for the DNR, acquiring land that meets the conservancy's criteria and then holding it for the DNR until public funds become available. He said the property is then sold to the DNR for what the conservancy paid for it.

News that the state was thinking of buying another large piece of property in Crawford County has not received accolades from residents concerned about the county's dwindling tax base.

"Whenever the DNR makes an out-right purchase, not a trade, the property is subject to ad valorem taxes," explained county equalization director Bill Borchers. This means the state pays the same millage rate as individual property owners. He said this is true for the McArthur property in Frederic Township and the Truettner property at Smith Bridge in South Branch Township.

Borchers said the property is taxable, but all buildings on the property are tax-exempt.

"The DNR does not pay taxes on buildings," he stated.

The State Tax Commission assesses all DNR property on an annual basis and Borchers said he has found their assessments to be generally fair and true to market.

The Michigan Nature Conservancy is a tax-exempt non-profit organization and as such they can request that property they acquire be exempt from property tax, which Woiwode said they do on a case-by-case basis. He said the conservancy

Public Meeting On Proposed School Draws Few Persons

An impressive roster of experts were on hand at the Grayling Elementary School on Monday night, March 22, to answer questions about why the school district needs a new elementary school and why should it be built on the present football field, but very few people showed up to ask anything.

"It was like planning a great party, and having no one show up," said one woman as she left the meeting. "I hope this isn't a sign of what is going to happen at the polls on June 11th."

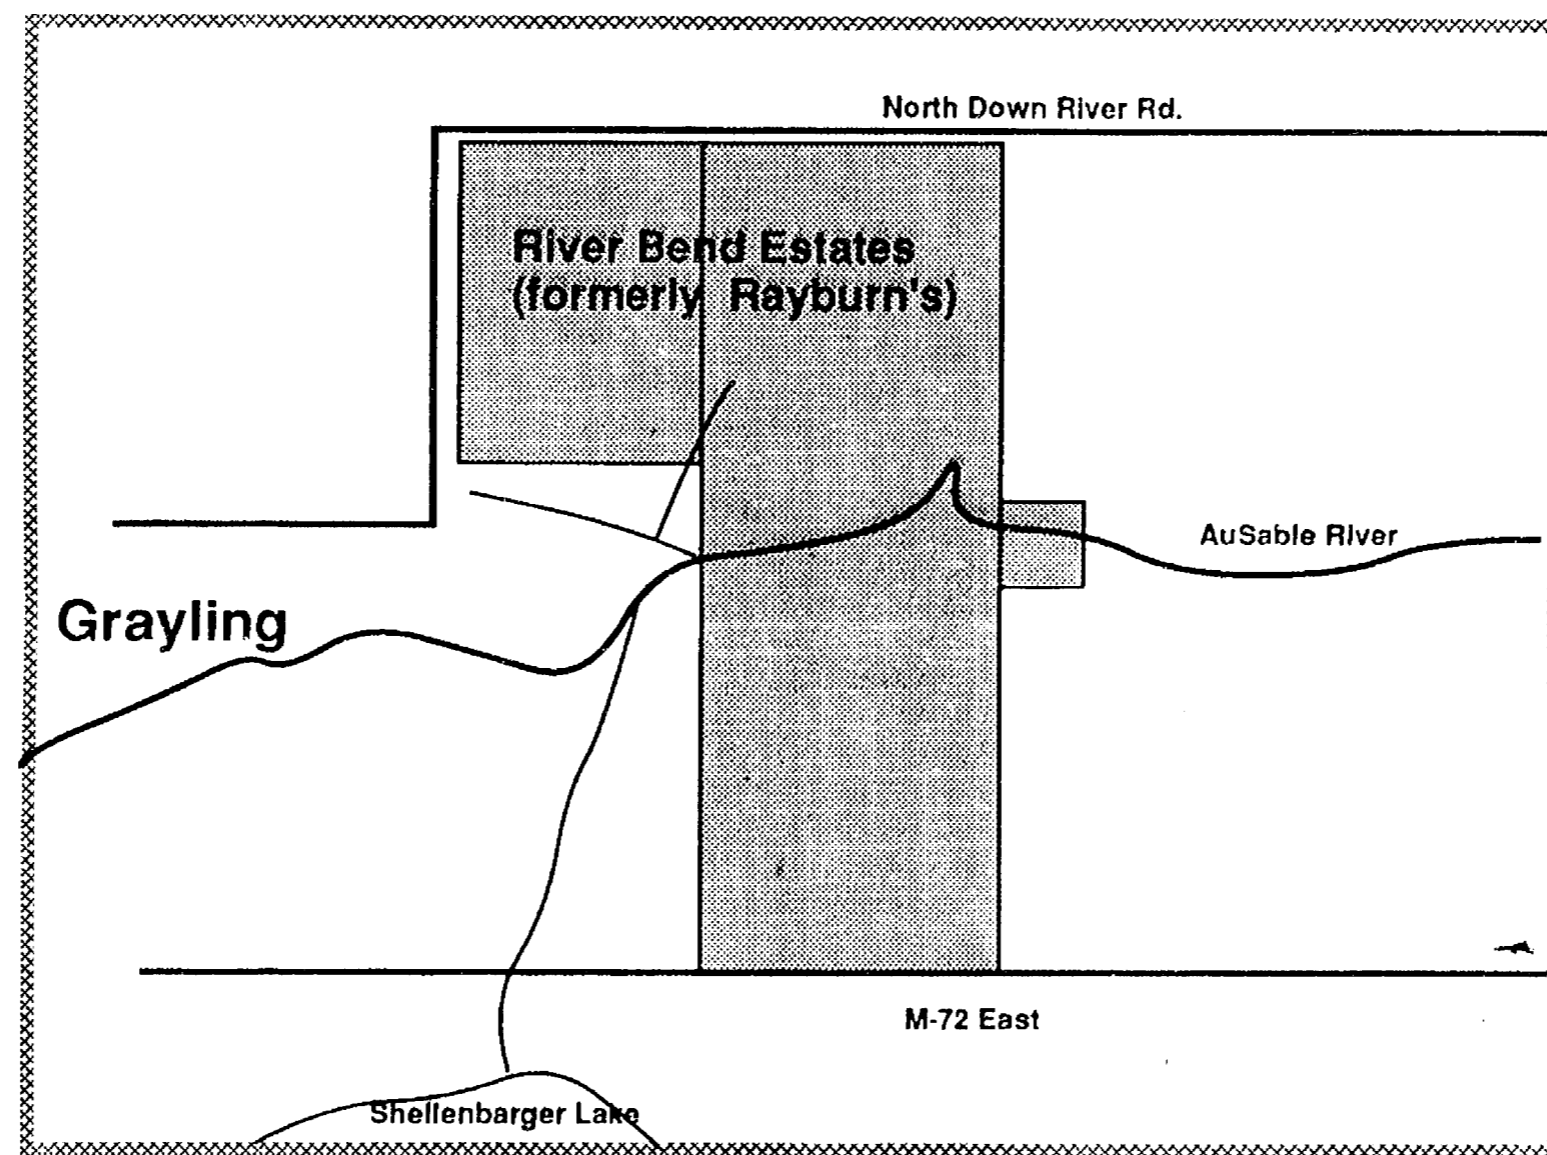

Crawford-AuSable administrators, teachers, school board members, an engineer, an architect and even a couple members of the Infrastructure Committee (who recommended that a new elementary school be built in the first place) all turned out to answer questions about the proposed new elementary school, but of the 22 people in attendance, only six came to learn more about the project.

Concerns expressed at the meeting ranged from what provisions are made in the new elementary school for special education classrooms to how much is this actually going to cost taxpayers.

School Superintendent Kent Reynolds explained that it will take two mills to pay off the bonds for the $5.5 million construction project, but only one mill more than the current debt retirement millage. He said the district has accumulated a fund balance in the debt retirement account that will absorb one of the two mills needed for construction.

In addition to the one mill for construction, 1.5 mills is also needed for the year the building is opened. This millage is necessary to pay for the cost of operating an additional build-

Medicaid 'Underfunding' Hurting Small Hospitals

"A Decade For Vision" was the theme at the annual day at the Capitol sponsored by the Michigan Hospital Association and Michigan Association of Hospital Auxiliaries, held Wednesday, March 21 in Lansing.

Members of the Mercy Hospital Auxiliary and administrative team at Mercy Hospital/Grayling attended the rally and luncheon in an effort to create enthusiasm and awareness of the difficult issues facing health care providers today.

"Issues such as reduced Medicaid payments, cuts in payments to hospital-based nursing homes and medical malpractice are important to providers as well as the community we serve," said Dennis Renander, President and Chief Executive Officer of Mercy Hospital/Grayling. "Nearly 75 percent of all Michigan hospitals and 84 percent of all rural hospitals lost money last year providing patient care. Medicaid underfunding is putting smaller hospitals out of business."

Hospitals account for 38.8 percent of the Medicaid budget but are slated for 67.8 percent of the budget cuts in fiscal year 1991, Renander commented. The proposed Healthy Start program for children will require more services while fewer dollars are provided, he added.

Mercy Hospital/Grayling currently receives only 79 cents on the dollar for care and treatment of Medicaid patients. This underfunding has become particularly harsh when viewed in the context of the charity care provided at Mercy.

"While reasonable health care cost containment measures are appropriate," Renander said, "continually aiming harsh and unreasonable cuts at hospitals through the Medicaid program is inappropriate."

Renander urged local citizens to write their legislators and voice their support for their local hospital.

Federal Vehicle Standards Called "A Joke"

No One Injured as Fire Quickly Ruins Dial-A-Ride Bus

Five passengers and the bus driver escaped without injury when a local dial-a-ride bus burst into flames last Friday, March 23, on the side of M-72 West near the Red Barn, gutting the interior of the bus in twelve minutes.

"At 8:12 a.m. the bus picked up a passenger in the Lake Margrethe area," said Crawford County Public Transit (CCPT) director Dave Frederick, "and the bus didn't exist at 8:24 a.m."

Fred Lambert, Vehicle Equipment Engineer with the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) said he was surprised that the fire lasted that long. One bus a year burns in Michigan, and he said they really disintegrate.

Frederick said the bus driver did an incredible job getting everyone off the bus.

The Crawford County Sheriff Dept. was notified of the fire at 8:17 a.m. and three sheriff department deputies were on the scene by 8:20 a.m. armed with fire extinguishers. Frederick said they were unable to contain the fire that started somewhere in the engine area of the bus. Additional fire extinguishers arrived at the scene via a County Road Commission vehicle and another dial-a-ride bus, but the bus was completely destroyed. Damage to the bus is estimated at $8,806.

"It was a very 'hot' fire by the time the fire department arrived," stated Frederick. "Especially considering there was no catastrophic accident." The diesel fuel tank on the bus did not burn and the battery did not explode.

Cause and Origin experts from the State Police Fire Marshall's office and the CCPT's insurance company have been called to investigate the fire. Frederick said he is also going to ask MDOT how the fire could have spread so quickly.

Frederick said he was troubled by how fast the fire spread throughout the passenger compartment, and that until someone can assure him that what happened on Friday is not going to reoccur, he is restricting the number of wheel chair passengers that will be allowed to ride the county's bus system.

Each Dial-a-ride bus is equipped with two sets of wheel chair restraints, but Frederick said only one wheel chair passenger per bus will be allowed to ride.

Lambert said he agrees with Frederick's decision.

All vehicles in the state must meet the minimum Federal Motor Vehicle Safety Standards. The problem, Lambert stated, is that these standards are grossly inadequate to insure the safety of the drivers and passengers, whether they are riding in a bus, car or airplane.

"In my opinion, they are a joke," Lambert stated.

As an example of the inadequacies of federal standards, Lambert said airplane interiors are regulated by the same federal minimum requirements as are buses and cars, yet people are allowed to smoke while the plane is in the air. He said if there was ever a fire on board a flight, the passengers would not have to worry about surviving the crash. He said the airplane would be consumed by fire and explode long before it hit the ground.

The good news, said Lambert, is that Michigan has taken the

Rotary Minstrel Show Set To Launch

by Don Geiss

The performers will be ready, the chorus well rehearsed, the skit stars prepared to create laughter, the band tuned to a "tee" and the show set to launch on March 30-31.

The newcomer might well ask what show? But the old timers in the area will be aware that there could not be any other show than the 14th Annual Grayling Rotary Minstrel Show. Why it is reported, that some of them even purchase tickets for the following year at the door of the current year's production.

Headlining the two night performances will be the ever popular raring to go, foot stomp creating, funny and audience thrilling, New Ref-ormation Dixieland Band. Persons attending the show say that they come for the music but stay to be thoroughly entertained by the rest of the hilarity.

Some regular patrons of the minstrel show art, however, contend that they come for the skits and stay for the music or they come to hear the chorus but stay for the skits. Generally speaking though, the exit poll taken at the end of the program seems to indicate that the End Men Team of Jim Berglund and Irv McIssac cannot be ignored as a strong lure for gathering an audience.

The theme for this year's extravaganza as usual is a highly classified secret known only to show director Ray Lange. A reliable informant, however has indicated that everyone in town who owns a belaying pin, cutlass, peg leg or eye patch has been contacted to contribute them for

Opinions

Let's Talk About It

By Joe Murphy

These warm spring days really trigger a lot of memories of the good old days when I was a boy in Frederic. As soon as there were a few dry spots in the spring the marble games started, they continued until things dried off enough to play baseball. A bunch of kids would gather at the old baseball diamond at the school to play the first of many games we'd play before fall. If we were lucky we would have enough kids for two teams. If so perhaps Bennie Allen and Johnnie Harmer would be selected as captains. A bat would be tossed to one of them, they would catch it in the middle then hand on hand to the end of the handle, the one to get the last at least three finger grip had first choice for his team. The selecting went on alternating back and forth till they had selected their teams. I remember I stood pretty low in the choice of players.

Most often we didn't have enough kids for two teams and scrub baseball was our game. We each tried to start in a select position with batter always the first chosen. Then backward from catcher with the last spot being right field. As each batter was put out he went to right field and each position moved up one place. Finally you worked your way to batter and tried your best to avoid an easy out or it was back to right field. We had to be careful not to make the kid who owned the ball mad or he might take his ball and go home. It seemed we never had over one ball in town, the kid who owned it got special treatment till his ball was beyond repair. Then another kid might get a ball and be the favored one. But those old ball games still bring back a lot of good memories.

Very soon now the census will be in full swing, do yourself and your neighbors a favor by making sure you are counted. Many projects and programs depend upon those figures for the size of the payments from the federal government. If a significant number of people are missed it will cost our state, county and city a lot of funds that are fairly theirs. The elderly have a lot to lose if we get a short count. It is very important to fill out the census form you will receive in the mail. If you need help in filling out the census form it will be available at a location near you or if need be at your home. Watch the Avalanche for information on when and where help can be obtained. Please, stand up and be counted.

To all you fine folks that have had some kind words about my efforts at writing I wish to say a Big Thank You in return. I sometimes get discouraged and feel I'm wasting my time and the Avalanche's space with my columns no one bothers to read. Then a note, a phone call or in person someone will have a few kind words to say about it and it all seems worthwhile again. Larry, Angie and Bennie I am very proud of the kind words you had about my efforts, Thank You.

Red Cross Team Saves A Life

Dear Crawford County Red Cross Team:

Becoming a regular blood donor was for me simply a matter of your assisting me to overcome that common fear of "the needle". You get more than my thanks, however, because had you not been so patient and kind, you might not have been there in this past month to save my life. Please let me explain:

High blood pressure and hypertension are not called the Silent Killers for no reason; a person is truly not aware of having an elevated blood pressure which is just waiting to issue them a one-way ticket to Stroke City. Stress from personal problems, job or family matters, or any number of forms of pressure seem to force the heart into an unnatural routine of beating out of control. Fortunately for me you people are trained to detect the possible dangers to an individual who come to you to donate blood. Not only do you monitor the blood pressure level but you can tell immediately whether or not the blood needs more iron. What a quick, inexpensive way to save a human life.

Had I not become a regular donor, how long was my heart expected to outpace my personal tensions? How long could I continue to flirt with death or long-term impairment? I have no answers to these and other questions, but I am not immortal and neither are any of those who may be reading this letter to the newspaper.

But again, Red Cross Team, thank you for my life. I have no way to calculate its worth, but it is certain that I will gladly exchange my pints of blood for it as long as I am able. What a fantastic bargain!

Can we believe TV pitches?

TIME ONCE MORE for one of our infrequent strolls, barefoot through the potpourri...

Lloyd Bridges and George Hamilton, probably are watching more closely what they are saying.

Mr. Bridges, television and movie hero from the past, and Mr. Hamilton, more of the same, both got caught up in a problem with television endorsements.

Mr. Bridges recently settled a lawsuit brought by investors who said he made misleading television ads for the A.J. Obie mortgage company, causing investors to lose thousands of dollars to fraudulent investment schemes.

Mr. Hamilton earlier had settled a similar suit arising from his appearances in TV ads for Diamond Mortgage Co.

The reason you settle a suit, of course, is if you think you're going to lose in court. Apparently Mr. Bridges and Mr. Hamilton — and their lawyers — figured they were on shaky ground.

Does this mean those of us who watch celebrities invite us to invest — or to move into a retirement village, or to eat oat bran, or to buy this car or that one, or to become separated from our money in any of countless ways — may now rest assured that everything we hear or see is true, and that the pitchman (or woman) stands behind their claims?

Apparently, yes. And that's good news, too.

Some observers think these cases will have a chilling effect on the use of celebrity spokespersons for commercial products or services. If that's true, it hasn't set in yet. And it probably won't either.

For example, Wayne Gretzky — who is paid zillions of dollars for playing hockey — also has a list of commercial endorsements which include Zurich Insurance, General Mills, Nike, Coca Cola, Peak, Karhu, Lloyd's Bank and American Express.

SPEAKING OF ADVERTISING pitches, quite a few old time stars are picking up a few bucks selling whatever comes along. Most of them I don't mind, although some blurred images sometimes develop.

POGO IS BACK. So is Doonesbury. So is Opus. All three comic strip characters were out of commission for a while. Walt Kelly, Pogo's creator, died, and the strip died with him; lately, however, some other writers and artists have brought him back.

Gary Trudeau put Doonesbury in mothballs for a while, to take a personal breather; so did Berke Breathed, with his Bloom County strip and characters.

Now all three are back on comic strip pages across the country.

Am I the only one who believes all three should have stayed retired? Current offerings in all three cases, it seems to me, are pathetic in comparison with the original efforts. I can hardly wade through a Pogo episode; ditto for Breathed's current strip. And the Doonesbury strip is plain and simply warped.

Or maybe I'm just getting older.

We have the robin as the official state bird, the white pine as the official state tree, the apple blossom as the official flower, the Petoskey stone as the official stone, and even the greenstone as the official gem. Now the Kalkaska Soil as official Michigan dirt.

"Without a state soil," reasons the bill's sponsor, Rep. Richard Sofio of Bessemer, "we wouldn't have a state tree, we wouldn't have a state bird, we wouldn't have anything."

Well, he's right there. But aren't there more important things to occupy the legislature's agenda?

Notes from the Woods

By Nancy Lemmen

There are some things I do — either routinely or occasionally — that evoke certain fleeting yet vivid images. For example, when I load the dryer I always think of one of my former volleyball players. It started when she gave me a pair of earrings to hold during a game and didn't reclaim them immediately. I stuck them in my pocket and they wound up in a load of drying.

When I clean the bathroom, I can see an old friend who was known for, among many other virtues, grand house-keeping skills. When I rake a certain section of my yard, I mentally glimpse a former student of mine who did yard work to earn money.

So it was the other evening as I grated fresh parsley to sprinkle over the tuna-rice casserole. I had a fleeting glimpse of an old, old acquaintance — a man I haven't even seen more than once or twice in the past fourteen years.

He was the provost at the college I attended, then a vice-president of the same institution when I worked there. Originally and still occasionally a biology professor, he valued the bounty which the natural world offered.

I recall that when he was served a plate of food with sprigs of fresh parsley, he ate the parsley too. He said it was full of some vitamin that was good for us — vitamin A or D, I think — I have forgotten which one. But I still carry with me the image of him when I eat fresh parsley.

Alone, this brief mental connection of parsley and an old acquaintance might have been insignificant, albeit a bit amusing. It was poignant and significant, however, because it was accompanied by the simultaneous reminder that the man is suffering from a deep, complex, inoperable brain tumor.

In December, the college president wrote saying that the provost/vice-president had resigned. He was only 54 years old then. He had worked for the college for 32 years.

Don't send flowers to the family, the president advised. They already have plenty. But he included the man's address if people cared to send cards and letters.

Oh why not flowers? They're so simple. You just order them and sign a little card with "Love" or "We're thinking of you" and that's that.

Send a card? Wherever would I find one with the appropriate message? Those with chirping birds and bright flowers on the cover and messages that read, "a little note to cheer you" are entirely inadequate. Those that are deemed "appropriate for serious illness" are too overbearing and deny any hope for miraculous cures.

Write a letter? I couldn't. Whatever would I say that would be right for this occasion? I haven't seen the man for years. What words could I write beyond platitudes and clichés? Where would I find the inspiration to provide true comfort and consolation to him?

I send nothing tangible. Just my thoughts, often. But the United States Postal Service takes no responsibility for the delivery of mental messages. So he and his family have no way of knowing that here I am — miles and years away from this man, greatly moved by my association with him — yet too inarticulate to find the way to tell them so.

If I could, I would say that I recall him as unfailingly gracious and respectful to me as I made the awkward transition from undergraduate student to faculty wife. I would recall that whenever I am on Connor's Marsh, I think of his appreciation for the rich plant and animal life found in his own local bog.

I would add that whenever I till the garden in the early spring, I remember that it was he who provided me the space for my own first garden. He worked in the dark, loamy soil of his large, impressive garden in farmer's overalls and high-top boots, as I tended my own small, less-productive section.

I would thank him for the time he drove an hour to walk us around a small lake on an instructive nature hike, to prepare Dave for his role as Nature Director at a summer camp.

I would add that I was inspired by his unfailing concern for environmental issues, impressed by his ability to move smoothly and unerringly from professor to administrator, amazed at his organizational skills with which he made time to administer, teach, research, write and advocate.

This was his legacy to me, one single person among the thousands of students he touched, the hundreds of friends he must have made, the scores of employees he oversaw.

I am put in the mind of the magnificent John Donne poem which begins, "No man is an island, intire of itselfe; every man is a pcece of the Continent, a part of the maine..."

The line which inspires me now reads, "any mans death diminishes me, because I am involved in Mankinde..." I want to tell him that if he dies, indeed I too will be diminished, for his very existence had an impact on my own.

He was a part, small yet significant, of my past. Therefore he remains in my present and will figure in my future. Perhaps it would provide him a small measure of comfort if I were to tell him that.

The Donne poem closes with, "And therefore never send to know for whom the bell tolls; It tolls for thee." I can hear the tolling of the bell. I am not an island. I am diminished. Yet I am simultaneously enriched, because of my short, yet enduring association with this single human being.

Rayburn Property

does not have "blanket" exemption and that when they purchase property for another agency, such as the DNR, they never apply for tax-exempt status for the property.

"The Nature Conservancy would not do anything to compromise their tax-exempt status," stated Woiwode. "We do not use it for any purpose other than our very clear and apparent mission of preserving and protecting the finest of Michigan's public lands."

County treasurer Joseph Wakeley said DNR property that is subject to ad valorem taxes consistently ranks as one of the top five taxpayers in the county, according to the State Equalized Value.

In 1988, the DNR was ranked 4th, paying $2,531,300, and they have been assessed $2,497,250 for 1990.

The 1989 assessed value of the McArthur property was $374,900 and Wakeley said the DNR paid $17,218 in property taxes.

Rayburn's consists of 1,132 acres stretching north and south from North Down River Road to M-72 East and east and west for about one mile along the AuSable River. With the exception of the main lodge, a large garage, a caretakers' cottage, an in ground swimming pool and a metal pole barn, the property remains in its natural state.

Eugene and Susan Kraus from Oak Park bought Rayburn's and they renamed it River Bend Estates. The Krauses planned to develop the property into an 18-hole golf course. To finance the project, Kraus intended to sell the river frontage lots as well as the lots surrounding the golf course for single family condominiums.

The lots did not sell, and now the Grayling State Bank is in the process of foreclosing for default of Kraus' $600,000 promissory note.

Naour said several local groups, such as the Chamber of Commerce and the AuSable River Property Owners are supporting state ownership of the Rayburn property, if not taken off the tax rolls.

Anglers of the AuSable president, Rusty Gates, said his group has been working to insure that all divisions of the DNR presented favorable recommendations to the MNRTF.

"As the local agent for the sale of the property," said Naour, "I am pleased to work with the DNR and the owner, Gene Kraus, to preserve this prime river frontage for the citizens of the immediate area and the people of the state through the acquisition of more public land for low impact recreational purposes."

The MNRTF board will be meeting following the April 1st nominations deadline and the acquisition of the Rayburn property will be discussed at that time.

the production.

"Yo Ho Ho And A Bottle Of Rum" may be one of the songs selected by the chorus depending on whether they are sufficiently mellifluous during the evening. Otherwise other tunes appropriate to the theme will be hurdled through the air to astound the listeners.

Afficionados of the acclaimed productions say that normally the walk-on skit performers are reluctant to talk about their little sketches but this year they have changed to be increasingly vague.

Sources say that the only person who has made the slightest bit of sense has been the Reverend LeRoy who promised one of his earth shattering sermons. Informants indicate that the now famous television rabbit of battery walk on fame will try to interrupt the show.

Those who attended last year will of course remember the Super Fly who was whopped on the head and was reduced to about six inches in size. This year another equalling show stopping event will be held.

Skits such as Flying John and a Luscious Snack have also had the reviewers rolling in the aisles.

There are still a few reserved seat tickets available at Grayling State Bank, Ticket Chairman Dick Albee said. He noted that the bank and all Rotarians are supplied with general admission tickets. The cost is $7.50 for reserved seats and $5 for general admission. He pointed out that only a selected block of 200 seats were held in reserve so good main floor spots are available at the general admission price. The show will be held at the Joseph Stripe Auditorium in Grayling High School with doors opening on both March 30 and 31 at 7 p.m.

The proceeds will as usual go to the many worthwhile good works projects backed by the club.

initiative and has re-written the specifications for new vehicles that far exceed any federal standard.

"We are the first state in the nation to have gone this far," he said.

Lambert said a consultant from the federal Urban Mass Transportation Administration (UMTA) is presently reviewing Michigan's specifications and has admitted that he is impressed with what he has seen.

"Nothing in the new buses will sustain fire," explained Lambert. "When the fire is removed, nothing inside the bus will burn." He said everything inside the bus will be made of fire retardant and fire resistant materials. That will include the seat coverings and foam interiors, ceilings, floors and dash boards.

Unfortunately, he said, until the old busses wear out and are taken off the road, the danger that what happened in Grayling last week can and will reoccur. He said it could be another two years before all the older models are replaced.

Dennis Papoi, MDOT Unit Supervisor for northern Michigan, said they are aware that the older vehicles burn fast and that his department is concerned about the situation. He said the dial-a-ride bus that burned in Grayling was a 1986-87 model and because of Michigan's upgraded specifications, companies are now building a much safer vehicle.

Papoi said MDOT will be sending someone to Grayling to examine the bus.

The Crawford County Public Transit system has been carrying passengers since 1976. The bus system has travelled three million miles and carried 1,500,000 passengers. During that time, one bus was involved in an accident that resulted in one personal injury to a passenger.

Mrs. Loretta Barnes, former resident of Grayling, had the misfortune to fall and break her hip. For those wishing to send her greetings, her address is Memorial Hospital, 615 Michigan, Room 821, South Bend, Indiana 46601.

Barb and Ron Larson had a surprise birthday party for her sister, Opal Hamblin, on March 3. Much to Opal's surprise, another sister, Fran Hebel, from Port Charlotte flew up for the occasion. There were about 17 family members present including Opal's daughter, Becky Christenson from Higgins Lake and Dawn Meabon and husband, Bob, from Pinckney.

In the entire history of baseball and football, Bo Jackson is only the second athlete to play in the major leagues in baseball after winning the Heisman Trophy in football... The only other person ever to do that was Vic Janowicz who won the Heisman at Ohio State in 1950 and then played big league baseball in 1953 and 1954... Jackson won the Heisman at Auburn in 1985 and started playing big league baseball in 1986.

Curtis Strange has a chance to do something this year that no golfer has done for 85 years... And that is to win the U.S. Open 3 years in a row... Strange won the Open in 1988 and 1989... No golfer has won the U. S. Open 3 consecutive years since Willie Anderson in 1903, 1904 and 1905.

Now that boxer Mike Tyson has lost, there's only one person who was heavyweight champion of the world and never lost a pro fight... That was Rocky Marciano who was champion from 1952 to 1956... Marciano won all 49 of his fights... All other heavyweight champs lost at least one fight in their careers.

Walt and Marti Nowak have returned from a three-week trip to Gulf Shores, Alabama, Newport Richey and Kissimmee, Florida. They visited their son, Patrick and family in Ann Arbor, on their return as well as stopping in Saginaw to visit cousins, Russell Christie and Katherine Christa.

READING MONTH PROJECT--Students from the Grayling Elementary School have been busy decorating grocery bags with pictures and written messages proclaiming March as National Reading Month. The decorated bags were taken to Glen's Market and Denny's IGA where they are being used to pack customer groceries. Pictured are several budding artists from Mrs. Sally Yost's first grade.

7TH BIRTHDAY--The Grayling Promotional Association celebrated its seventh birthday Tuesday, March 20, during their regular weekly meeting at Chief Shoppenagon's Hotel. GPA was founded seven years ago by a group of women with the purpose of promoting Grayling. Today the organization sponsors several events, including Pictionary, the Milltown Parade and the Celebration of Lights at Christmas. Pictured are GPA's new officers for the coming year: (from left) Debbie Allen, Vice President, Elaine Riley, Treasurer, Maggie Priestap, Secretary, and Karen Brewer, President.

GPA WOMEN OF THE YEAR--As part of its seventh anniversary celebration, the Grayling Promotional Association nominated Betty Bennett, left, and Rose Duley as GPA's "Women of the Year". Their outstanding contributions to the GPA and Grayling community were deserving of this prestigious award. Both women were presented with the honor during the GPA birthday luncheon held Tuesday, March 20.

Proposed Elementary

ing. Both issues must pass for the board of education to build the building.

For the person who owns a $50,000 home with an assessed value of $25,000 the one mill increase for construction will add $25 to their tax bill the first year. When construction is completed and the school opens, an additional $37.50 for operational expenses will be added to the $25 making the total tax increase $62.50 per year. The construction millage is for 20 years. The operational millage will become part of the district's ongoing operational millage.

To break this down further, it will cost the taxpayer in Crawford County who owns a $50,000 home about 17 cents per day to build and operate the new elementary school.

Tom Johnson, of Grayling, asked why we didn't just add on to the existing Grayling Elementary School.

"The Grayling Elementary School is already one of the largest elementary schools in the state," said Reynolds. "The ideal school being around 300 students." Reynolds stated that to add additional classrooms onto the Grayling Elementary would have required the installation of a new furnace system because the present system is working at capacity. He said a new cafeteria would have to be added to take care of the additional students during lunch, a larger kitchen would be needed to handle the additional meal demands, office space is needed for special services, a second library and gym would be needed, and when all this was completed, he said, the Grayling Elementary School would be too large to function adequately as an elementary school.

Johnson asked how much space in the proposed new elementary school will be set aside for special education classrooms.

Reynolds said the new school will provide two categorical special education classrooms where currently there is one at the Grayling Elementary School. There will still be one special education classroom at the Grayling Elementary School and two in the new building. One of those at the new school will be used by the COOR Intermediate School District for their shared-time program.

Classrooms in the proposed new school will be approximately 1,100 sq. ft., about 200 sq. ft. larger than the average Grayling Elementary classrooms.

Bob Stow, of GBKB, an architectural firm from Traverse City, said the larger classrooms have been designed to allow enough space for the children to move around as they learn.

"Everything we know about kid's learning," said Stow, "is that they don't learn just by sitting and listening. They learn by doing things, touching and feeling and moving things around while they count them." He said children need more space for these types of activities than the traditional classroom will allow.

The proposed new elementary school will house 19 classrooms plus two special education classrooms. Reynolds said this includes classroom space for the district's pre-school program, which is currently housed in the high school. The pre-school is funded totally by the state and Reynolds said, according to the word from Lansing, the program is going to be growing in the future.

Dave Stephenson asked whether the future growth of the area was factored in when the new school was designed. Reynolds said it allows for some growth, but during the early planning stages the question of whether to build the school for the future or for today was a dilemma for the board of education.

"We tried to project five years down the road, but we knew building a new school was going to be a difficult issue for people," he said. "It always is when you ask them to spend money, so we decided to ask only for what we know we will need."

Stephenson asked why there was nothing about expenses in the explanation of teachers to be covered by the 1 1/2 mills for the operation of the new building.

"Those are already in the budget," explained Reynolds. The school board budgets three years into the future, he explained, and even though it does not have the space, it has already budgeted for the additional teaching staff that will be required for future enrollment.

"From the practical standpoint," he said, "the board has budgeted for two additional elementary school teachers for next fall and we really need them, but we don't have anywhere for them to teach, so we are probably not going to hire them."

Reynolds said the operational expenses are only for personnel and expenses that would be needed for the operation of another building, not additional students.

There was some question about whether the parking facilities for the proposed new elementary school were sufficient. The concern was that if the parking facilities were too small, the area could experience the same congestion that is occurring before and after school at the Grayling Elementary School.

Stow said the new parking lot was planned for 42 spaces, which Reynolds said is not enough.

"We do not want to under-park the new building," said Reynolds. The dangerous situation at the Grayling Elementary School is due, in part, because there is not enough space to park, he stated.

"We really need to be able to park two hundred cars between the two parking lots," he said.

Reynolds said by placing the schools side-by-side and putting a bus only drop-off and pick-up circle, it is going to greatly reduce congestion and safety problems and reduce the number of parents parking in the hospital parking lot during evening activities.

Placing the proposed new elementary school beside the Grayling Elementary School will allow the two buildings to share their facilities and personnel, thus saving money. The new elementary school will house two cafeterias, one for Pre-school through second grade and the other for grades 3-5. A new kitchen containing the equipment from the Grayling Elementary School kitchen will service both cafeterias. This will free the Grayling Elementary School's multi-purpose room, which doubles as a cafeteria, for gym classes and assemblies.

Speech therapy and the Social Services will be housed in the new building with students from both buildings coming to these offices.

The question was asked where the Grayling Middle School students would go for their outdoor physical education classes after the football field was relocated.

Reynolds explained that a large portion of land being set aside at the elementary school complex for a soccer field, even though it will be slightly under regulation size, and that the Grayling Middle School students will continue to use that area. He said the area would be kept separate from the other elementary school's playground areas.

One of the more serious problems facing our society today is what shall we do with our solid waste. Historically, garbage has been dumped behind the house, in the ravine down the road or at local dumps. Recognition of the environmental problems of this "toss it and forget it" method of solid waste management has led to today's improved but still imperfect "landfills".

To take a look at the enormity of the challenge facing us, let us consider just one component of our solid waste problem - tires. Tires are indispensable to our mobile society. Cars, trucks, tractors, bikes and other vehicles roll on tons and tons of rubber. As these tires wear out (at the rate of one per season per year, for a total of 9,000,000 annually in Michigan) they have to be disposed of. Most of us forget about our tires when we have new ones installed - perhaps thinking that the garage owner will sell them as scrap. This is not the case. A few can be retreaded, but the vast majority end up in large piles that become fire hazards and/or prime mosquito breeding sites. Two cases emphasize this point. First is the incident of a pile of tires burning 9 months in Virginia and costing over a million dollars to extinguish. Secondly, is an Ohio study which showed that 80 percent of children afflicted with a form of encephalitis transmitted by mosquitoes lived within 80 yards of a tire pile.

Our best hope to resolve this problem is to develop an economically feasible method to recycle tires into other commodities or an energy source.

In the meantime, millions of tons of other solid waste, from plastic to glass to metal to whatever you can think of, continue to pile up also.

Verse or Worse

By Joe Murphy

MY DREAM WORLD

I dream of a world where all mankind
Could have a meeting of the mind
Agree that all men were their brother
And show love and respect for one another

Where men were judged by their deeds
And not by race, color or creeds
Where prison walls would crumble to dust
As all men learned respect and trust

Where if one grew weary on life's road
A brother would come to share his load
Where there was always someone to pay heed
To a call for help in time of need

Where each could worship in their own way
And no one could tell them how to pray
Where all men would be free of hate and greed
Where for safes and locks there'd be no need

Where all would extend a helping hand
To a fallen brother till he could stand
Where no one would die in a bloody war
For we'd never need them anymore

Where one and all would be well fed
And be safe and secure in their bed
Where each would find the opportunity
To be what he wanted to be

Where governments were honest and fair
There'd be no graft or corruption there
The only way my dream world can ever be
If with God's help it can start with ME.

Animal Care Tip

An astounding seven and a half million dogs and cats were euthanized in animal shelters around the United States in 1989. The Humane Society of the United States reminds us that there are not enough homes for all the animals born and strongly recommends that you spay or neuter your pet.

The Bible Speaks

The Gospel of John Part # 119 The Purpose of John's Gospel

The first purpose of John's gospel is to reveal the Scriptures of God to man giving us a historical account of the earthly ministry of Jesus Christ as God. "And many other signs truly did Jesus in the presence of his disciples, which are not written in this book: But these are written..." (John 20:30, 31a). Matthew, Mark, and Luke also wrote gospel accounts of the earthly ministry of Jesus Christ.

The second purpose of John's gospel is to reveal the Savior of God to man. "But these are written, that ye might believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God..." (John 20:31 a, b). Remember the testimony of Peter: "Then Simon Peter answered him, Lord, to whom shall we go? thou hast the words of eternal life. And we believe and are sure that thou art that Christ, the Son of the living God." (John 6:68, 69). The purpose of Holy Scripture is to point to Jesus Christ. Search the scriptures; for in them ye think ye have eternal life: and they are they which testify of me. And ye will not come to me, that ye might have life." (John 5:39, 40). "Whosoever transgresseth, and abideth not in the doctrine of Christ, hath not God. He that abideth in the doctrine of Christ, he hath both the Father and the Son." (II John 1:9).

The third purpose of John's gospel is to reveal the Salvation of God to man. "...And believing ye might have life through his name." (John 20:31c). "And this is the record, that God hath given to us eternal life, and this life is in his Son. He that hath the Son hath life; and he that hath not the Son of God hath not life." (I John 5:11, 12). "That whosoever believeth in him should perish, but have eternal life. For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life." (John 3:15, 16). "He that believeth on the Son hath everlasting life: and he that believeth not the Son shall not see life; but the wrath of God abideth on him." (John 3:36). "Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that heareth my word, and believeth on him that sent me, hath everlasting life, and shall not come into condemnation; but is passed from death unto life." (John 5:24).

Has the purpose of John's gospel been fulfilled in your life during our series in this book? If you have not received Jesus Christ as your savior, will you just now ask Jesus Christ to forgive you of all your sins, and to enter your heart and life. Trust Christ today! (Hear "The Bible Speaks" at 12:15 p.m. Tuesday on WQON 100 FM).

Confidence

Probably nothing in the world expresses such perfect trust as a dog. He has absolute confidence in you, and if you are like most people, you never willingly let him down.

In fact, you may find yourself wishing that you had someone to rely on as your puppy does on you. But that's not the fate of humans. God gave us intelligence and ability so we could be self-reliant.

However, God gave us also the chance to find a faith to sustain us all through life. And He gave us His house—on earth—in which to begin to understand that faith.

Are you a regular member in that house?
